20 EX- TEMPORE JUDGMENT

22 1. This matter comes before me in my capacity as the judge responsible for the 23 Family Division of the Grand Court and also due to my being the Hague 24 Convention Network Judge for the Cayman Islands.

26 2. Due to the requirement for a prompt decision to be made, I give this in the form of 27 an ex tempore judgment. A copy of this oral ruling will be transcribed and copies 28 provided to the parties. Additionally, I permit copies of the judgment to be 29 provided to the parties' attorneys and the Court in any related proceedings that 30 may be brought in the United States of America and to the Central Authorities of the Cayman Islands and the United States involved in any Hague Convention procedure concerning the relevant children.

4 3. This matter concerns BJ (male) and AJ (female), twins born on 2nd June 2005 and 5 who are, therefore, aged 8. I shall refer to them as "the children" in this judgment.
6 The children's father was DJ who passed away on 23rd November 2013. The 7 children were born through a surrogacy agreement with their Filipino biological 8 mother and were born in Jamaica. A copy of this agreement has not been provided 9 to the Court and should be obtained. EJ, DJ's wife, appeared to take on the role of 10 mother, although the children never resided with her for any great length of time.
11 EJ passed away on 30 May 2010.

12 13 4. The fact that the children are born of a surrogacy arrangement must not be 14 ignored in these proceedings. It may have a bearing on what applications can be 15 made, by whom and who should be informed about the proceedings.

16 17 5. This appears to have been a traditional surrogacy where the children are the 18 genetic children of the surrogate mother, rather than a gestation or surrogacy 19 where there is no such genetic connection. It is believed that the sperm was that of 20 DJ, the commissioning father. However, this requires clarification. In the Cayman 21 Islands there is no Law similar to the Human Fertilisation and Embryology Act 22 2008 ("HFEA") in England and Wales. This means that there is uncertainty and greater complication in determining issues in relation to a child's parents, especially where the child is born through an overseas surrogacy arrangement.

4 6. Under the Children Law (2012 Revision) the birth mother always has parental 5 responsibility for the child. In England the HFEA provides the means by which 6 the parental responsibility of the birth mother is removed and all parental rights 7 vested in the commissioning couple equally by means of a parental order. The 8 most appropriate mechanism is for the commissioning parents to formally adopt 9 the child, at which time the parental responsibility in the biological surrogate 10 mother would come to an end. In law, the child would then be the child of the 11 adopters and not of any other person. The surrogate mother, save for the 12 exceptions set out in HFEA, is not be able to transfer her parental responsibility 13 for the child. Nothing would prevent her from delegating or arranging for another 14 person to exercise the parental responsibility for the child. Then, of course, any 15 person who had looked after the child for three years could, with the leave of the 16 Court, apply for a residence order and thereby acquire parental responsibility.
17 There is no clear information before me to show that the parental responsibility 18 vested in the birth surrogate mother has been brought to an end, although I am 19 being asked to speculate that an adoption has taken place. I am not willing to do 20 that.

1 7. The applications are brought by KJ, aged 47. He shares the same biological father 2 as the children and EJ was his mother. KJ was appointed as the “primary 3 guardian” of the children in KJ’s Will dated 1st November 2013. In the same 4 paragraph in the said Will MC was to “continue to act as their secondary 5 Guardian.” These appointments phrased in this manner, are not as clear as one 6 might ordinarily wish, but it appears that the intention of the deceased may have 7 been that KJ would be the primary decision maker concerning matters relating to 8 the children. It may well be that the deceased intended that be done in 9 consultation with MC. To date there has been no grant of probate on DJ’s Will.
10 The November 2013 Will appears to have superseded an earlier Will entered into 11 by DJ in which he appointed only his sister, MC, as guardian for the children.<sup>1</sup> 12

13 8. It is important to understand what the status of a guardian is. A Guardian may be 14 appointed for a child by his parent or parents or by the Court in the event of the 15 death of one or both of his parents.<sup>2</sup> That appointment must be in writing, dated 16 and signed by the person making the appointment or in a case of a will there may 17 be exceptions, as long as it is signed at the direction of the testator.<sup>3</sup> When 18 effective, the appointment vests in the guardian parental responsibility for the 19 child in place of the deceased parent or parents.<sup>4</sup> In other words, he steps into the 20 shoes of the deceased parent in the event of that parent’s death. Such an appointment will not take effect until there is no surviving parent with parental responsibility.<sup>5</sup> Therefore, it is important to consider whether the surrogate mother has still retained her parental responsibility, for if she has she is arguably a surviving parent with parental responsibility. In turn, this will mean that the appointment of KJ and possibly MC is not effective. If it is not effective, it means that they do not have parental responsibility and would not be able to exercise a guardian's right to apply for section 10 orders, pursuant to section 12(4)(a). This will restrict the applications that may be made under the Children Law.

9. A copy of the 1st November 2013 Will was provided to MC on 24th November 2013. In addition, the contents of the new Will were read out to MC over the telephone by Mr. Wolf, a partner at KJ's attorneys. KJ indicates that by the close of the conversation MC understood that she now had no role to play in relation to DJ's estate. That may have been an inaccurate impression to have given to her, as DJ intended her to act as the secondary guardian. I note that Section 7(10) Children Law (2012 Revision) makes it permissible for there to be two or more persons to be appointed as guardians acting jointly. Therefore, it may be argued that both KJ and MC were appointed as guardians, and if this appointment has taken effect that they both have parental responsibility under the Children Law (2012 Revision).

1 10. KJ states that he informed MC that the children could attend their father's 2 memorial service to be held in Grand Cayman on 30th November 2013, but that it 3 would be in the children's best interests for them to remain in the Cayman Islands 4 and not to attend his funeral in Orlando, Florida to be held on 4th December 2013.
5 He stated that he also informed MC that it had been DJ's wish that the children 6 would reside in and be educated in the Cayman Islands.

8 11. Following DJ's passing, KJ returned to the United States on 25th November 2013.
9 He had "an inclination" that MC would remove the children from the jurisdiction 10 on 1st December 2013, after he had been informed that MC had instructed UJ, the 11 children's carer, to pack the children's bags as they were attending the funeral in 12 Florida on 4th December 2013. As a consequence, on his return to the Cayman 13 Islands, ex parte applications were made to the Summary Court initially by the 14 Department of Child and Family Services ("DCFS") and during that hearing by 15 KJ.

17 12. I have reviewed the Summary Court file. For reasons best known to the 18 Department of Children & Family Services ("DCFS") the application made was 19 for an Emergency Protection Order. I am told that at the hearing KJ made an oral 20 application for a Prohibited Steps Order. This is what was considered by the 21 Learned Magistrate, who no doubt still requires the written application to be filed.
22 The written detail given to the Learned Magistrate was rather brief and no statement of evidence was filed in support of the applications. Paragraph 5 of the still unsigned C11 Form would have given the impression that this was a case in which the children were being permanently removed from the jurisdiction and did not raise the possibility, which may turn out to be the case, that they may have been removed solely to attend their father's funeral in Florida. In addition, the application did not make it clear what enquiries the DCFS was seeking to carry out in relation to the welfare of the children.

13. Despite the nature of the application, it appears that the Learned Magistrate took a pragmatic approach, having had the opportunity to review the content of DJ's Will dated 1st November 2013, receive live evidence on oath from KJ and hear submissions from Mr. Austin-Smith on behalf of KJ. The Learned Magistrate made a Prohibited Steps Order preventing any person from removing the children from the Cayman Islands without order of the Court. The Learned Magistrate also ordered that MC or any other person in possession of the children's passports or other travel documents deliver the same to the Royal Cayman Islands Police Service, for onward delivery to the Clerk of Courts as soon as reasonably practicable. The return date of 19th December 2013 was given for further consideration of the Children Law application. The process server was unable to serve MC on 29th November 2013. MC was personally served with a copy of the order at around 10:55 a.m. on 30th November 2013.

22

1 14. A copy of the order was provided to the Immigration Department at the Owen 2 Roberts International Airport at 7:30 p.m. on 29th November 2013. However, the 3 Immigration Department advised that the children had already departed from the 4 jurisdiction in the company of CC, the husband of MC, earlier in the day on the 5 7:50 a.m. flight. This meant that the children were not able to attend their father's 6 memorial service held in the Cayman Islands.

8 15. KJ believes that the children were initially residing with CC at MC's property in 9 Windmere, Florida. KJ was later led to believe that the children have since 10 moved from that address to an undisclosed motel.

11 12 16. KJ contends that the children are habitually resident in the Cayman Islands, where 13 they have resided at the same address since August 2008. The children are in 14 Grade 3 at a reputable private school in Grand Cayman, at which KJ contends 15 they are flourishing and have many friends.

17 17. The Court was informed that the children have been cared for over the last five 18 years by DJ's 55-year-old cousin, UJ, and for the last four years also by their 19 nanny, AL.

20 21 18. DJ was a successful businessman and used to travel between the Cayman Islands 22 and the United States. Towards the end of his life he had to spend greater periods of time seeking treatment for his illness in the United States and during his absence the above carers looked after the children.

4 19. KJ states in his unsworn affidavit that he believes that in the short term, especially 5 at this difficult time for the children, that they should remain in Cayman. This 6 would mean that there would be some continuity in their life, involving their long-7 term carers, their schooling and friends. Although KJ is based in the United States 8 he indicates an intention to come back to the Islands for a few days each week to 9 be with the children. He indicates that he, his wife and family will be spending the 10 Christmas holidays in Grand Cayman with the children. He states that in the long 11 term he will act in the children's best interests and that he will treat them as his 12 own children. He accepts that a decision will have to be made going forward as to 13 where the children will reside for the long term. It is submitted today that if there 14 is disagreement about this, then that is something which should be dealt with in 15 the Courts in the Cayman Islands where it is contended that the children are 16 habitually resident.

18 20. I have read the unsworn affidavit of UJ. She indicated that she has worked for KJ, 19 her cousin, since June 2006. She said the children arrived on 15th August 2008, 20 when they were only three years old. She indicated that DJ's wife did not 21 accompany the children and she could not recall her visiting the Cayman Islands.

1 21. UJ indicated that she has been caring for the children for the past five years and 2 they have developed a close and loving bond. She gives details of the children's 3 integration into the community and indicates that both of the children enjoy living 4 here. She stated that the children used to visit their mother in Florida. The content 5 of her unsworn affidavit is consistent with the content of the unsworn affidavit of 6 AL. I should add that it has been brought to the Court's attention that the children 7 have also stayed with MC in Florida.

9 22. KJ by his ex-parte oral application seeks orders as a consequence of the alleged 10 wrongful removal and retention of the children in the United States since 29th 11 November 2013. There is no written application before the Court and initially an 12 ex parte s.10 residence order was sought coupled with a specific issue for the 13 return of the children to the care of KJ and to the Cayman Islands.

15 23. Ex-parte orders of this nature are draconian and are ordinarily made only in 16 exceptional circumstances, based on sufficient evidence filed by the Applicant. A 17 determination is made by the Judge based on the evidence placed before him by 18 an applicant in the absence of any representations from the other party. Therefore, 19 an applicant has a clear duty to assist the Judge and provide the Court with full 20 and frank disclosure of the evidence, in other words, he has a high duty of 21 candour. A failure to do so would ordinarily be grounds for a discharge of the 22 order. An applicant at an ex parte hearing should, if aware of it, outline to the Judge any defence the respondent would likely argue if they had been in attendance. For example, if KJ had knowledge that MC intended to return the children to the Cayman Islands after their father's funeral on 4th December 2013.

5 24. When I today consider KJ's ex parte application before me I am acutely aware of 6 the obligation placed upon the applying party and the Court at such hearings.
7 Mostyn J. in UL v BK [2013] EWHC 1735 (Fam) sets out his concerns about the 8 overuse of ex-parte applications and the duty placed on the applying party.
9 Although that is a case dealing with freezing injunctions made within divorce 10 proceedings, the general principles arising out of his review of the case law are 11 insightful when considering Children Law applications. I note that KJ has 12 provided his unsworn affidavit and two unsworn affidavits from children's carers 13 in support of his application. Ordinarily I would not consider the content of 14 affidavits handed up to the Court in this form. However, I do so in this case due to 15 the apparent urgency. However, I accept an undertaking from Counsel that sworn 16 copies will promptly be filed.

18 Habitual Residence

19 25. I am aware of the following case law. Due to the urgency of the situation, I herein 20 set out my review of the case law in my recent decision in CMS v RGS Fam 177 21 of 2013. Therein I stated that it is the habitual residence immediately before a 22 wrongful removal or retention that is the determining factor when considering habitual residence: RE S (A Minor) (Abduction) [1991] 2 FLR 1 & Re F (Minors) (Abduction: Habitual Residence) [1992] 2 FCR 595.

4 26. The legal principles in relation to habitual residence are helpfully set out by Mrs.
5 Justice Pauffley in FT and NT (Children), Re [2013] EWHC 850 (Fam) when 6 she states that:

7 "2. Habitual residence is a question of fact to be determined by the 8 trial judge. He or she should normally stand back from the 9 evidence and take a general view, rather than conducting a 10 microscopic search. An appreciable period of time and a settled 11 intention will be necessary to enable a person to become habitually 12 resident in country B as opposed to country A.

13 3. The requested period of time is not fixed and will depend upon 14 the facts of each case. Bringing possessions, doing everything to 15 establish residence before coming, having a right of abode, 16 seeking to bring family, durable ties with country of residence or 17 intended residence and many other factors have to be taken into 18 account. Habitual residence may be acquired despite the fact that 19 a move may only have been temporary or on a trial basis. A month 20 has been held to be 'an appreciable period of time' though that has 21 been described as 'the high watermark' in a case where the Court 22 of Appeal upheld the trial judge's finding that six weeks was 23 sufficient to result in the acquisition of a new habitual residence.

24 4. In relation to 'settled intention' it has been said that there must 25 be a degree of settled purpose. The purpose may be one or there 26 may be several. It may be specific or general.

3 5. The habitual residence of young children of married parents all 4 living together as a family is the same as the habitual residence of 5 the parents themselves and neither parent can change it without 6 express and tacit consent of the other or order of the court."<sup>6</sup>

7 27. In Re J (A Minor) (Abduction: Custody Rights) [1990] 2 AC 562, Lord

8 Donaldson M.R. stated:

9 "...in the ordinary case of a married couple... It would not be 10 possible for one parent unilaterally to terminate the habitual 11 residence of the child by removing the child from the jurisdiction 12 wrongfully and in breach of the other parent's rights."

13 28. Millett L.J. stated in Re M (Abduction: Habitual Residence) (1996)1 FLR 887:

14 "Where both parents have parental responsibility, neither of them 15 can unilaterally change the habitual residence of the child 16 wrongfully and in breach of the other party's rights: Re J. at 572
17 and 449 respectively per Lord Donaldson, MR."

18 29. In the Court of Appeal decision of ZA & Anor v NA [2012] EWCA Civ 13 Patten

19 L.J. said at paragraph 52:

20 "....Whether one treats both parents or only the mother as having 21 the care and control of the children, it is well established that the 22 habitual residence of the children cannot be changed by the 23 unilateral action of one parent, which is not consented to, or 24 acquiesced in by the other. This would be a charter for abduction.
25 The forced retention of the children in Pakistan cannot therefore 26

found the basis of a claim that by passage of time and their inevitable involvement in family life and education in Pakistan the older children have ceased to be habitually resident in England.”

5 30. Even if it can be argued that MC is also a guardian with parental responsibility, 6 she is not able to take unilateral action to remove the children from the Cayman 7 Islands. The children have resided in the Cayman Islands since aged 3, for 8 approximately five years, with their deceased father. It is clear, from an objective 9 view of the facts of this case, that before MC’s unilateral actions in relation to the 10 children that they were and are habitually resident in the Cayman Islands.

11

12 31. The children’s habitual residence cannot change unless all of those with parental 13 responsibility create a change, for instance that they arranged for the children to 14 live in settled circumstances in the United States, or for example themselves move 15 to the United States for a settled purpose. What is important is that they changed 16 the habitual residence voluntarily. It is important not to elevate the test into a 17 domicile of quasi-domicile test because habitual residence is a question of fact.
18 Consent, agreement, acquiescence, acceptance of each of those with parental 19 responsibility is crucial because of the requirement that residence must be 20 “voluntary” to be habitual. If it is not voluntary, it cannot be said to have been 21 settled. Accordingly, admittedly only on the evidence currently before me and 22 without having the benefit of hearing from MC, I find that the children remain 23 habitually resident in the Cayman Islands.

1           Orders

2    32.    For the reasons stated above, in the absence of clear evidence, I am unable to determine who has parental responsibility. In the absence of any evidence verifying a formal adoption of the children by their deceased parents, I am uncertain whether the surrogate mother's parental responsibility has come to an end. If it has not come to an end, then the written appointment of a guardian may not be effective. This causes problems with the type of orders, the Court may make today.

10   33.   However, these are children who I have found to be habitually resident in the 11   Cayman Islands. On the evidence before me it appears that the children have been 12   settled here for the past five years. I am conscious that this is a traumatic and 13   unsettled period for them and that, on the information before me, it is in their best 14   interests to remain, at least for the short term, in familiar surroundings. This 15   would enable them to attend their school, remain in the company of their friends 16   and be cared for by their long-term carers UJ and AL.

18   34.    I am also conscious, that the children's father has left a substantial estate, it is in 19   the region of 50 million US dollars. For an estate of this size the one page Will 20   has less detail than one might hope to see. Importantly, I note that in the Will DJ 21   bequeaths all his property to the two children. I am not sure how that varies from 22   the terms of his previous Will, which I have not seen. But what is clear, is that the 1 children are significant beneficiaries of his estate. There is, in such circumstances, 2 a concern that the relevant adults may be positioning themselves with one eye on 3 the benefit they may receive if they were to take over the care of these 4 beneficiaries. With that in mind, I am acutely conscious that the Court has a duty 5 to ensure the paramouncy of the children's interests and welfare.

7 35. In all the circumstances of this case, including the uncertainty at this stage as to 8 who has parental responsibility and what orders may be available to the Court 9 under the Children Law, I am of the view that the Court should exercise its 10 inherent jurisdiction and make both of these children wards of court. The Court 11 needs to exercise its parental jurisdiction and, at least for the short term, until 12 there is greater evidential clarification, ensure that ultimate responsibility for the 13 children rests with the Court.
14

15 36. I take this approach being conscious that, following the implementation of the 16 Children Law, there has been a substantial curtailment of the powers of the Grand 17 Court under its inherent jurisdiction in areas previously dealt with in wardship. I 18 have regard to the case of Re T (A minor) (Wardship: Representation) [1994] 19 Fam 4 at 59 in which Waite J stated:

20 "The courts undoubted discretion to allow wardship proceedings 21 to go forward in a suitable case is subject to their clear duty, in 22 loyalty to the scheme and purpose of the Children Act legislation, 23 to permit recourse to wardship only when it becomes apparent to 5            the judge in any particular case that the question which the court 6            is determining in regard to the minor's upbringing or property 7            cannot be resolved under the statutory procedures in Part II of the 8            Act in a way that secures the best interests of the child; or where 9            the minor's person is in a state of jeopardy from which he can only 10           be protected by giving him the status of a ward of court; or where 11           the court's functions need to be secured from the effects, 12           potentially injurious to the child, of external influences (intrusive 13           publicity, for example), and it is decided that conferring on the 14           child the status of ward of court will prove a more effective 15           deterrent in the ordinary sanctions of contempt of court which 16           already protect all family proceedings."

14    37.    With that in mind, I order the wards must be returned forthwith to the jurisdiction 15           of their habitual residence, namely the Cayman Islands. In the interim, having 16           regard to the apparent intention at paragraph 4 of the Will, I place the wards in the 17           interim care of KJ. I am informed that KJ will be attending the funeral of DJ on 18           4th December 2013 in Florida and I order that the wards be returned to his care 19           immediately upon service of this order, preferably in a child sensitive manner 20           when the parties meet in United States.

22    38.    For the avoidance of doubt, I wish to make it clear that the removal of a ward of 23           court from the Cayman Islands without the leave of the Court is prohibited. Any 24           such removal would be regarded as a breach of the custody rights of the Court.
25           The parties must now be aware that the judge becomes the guardian for the 3 children and responsible for making all decisions which seriously affect the 4 children's life and welfare. If required, this will include making all the necessary 5 applications pursuant to the Hague Convention on the Civil Aspects of 6 International Child Abduction.

8 39. I am conscious that there are ongoing proceedings in the Summary Court with the 9 return date scheduled for 19th December 2013. Due to the international element in 10 this case and the fact that these proceedings are now under the residual inherent 11 jurisdiction of the Grand Court, the proceeding should now be assigned to the 12 Grand Court. The Summary Court should be notified so that they may vacate the 13 date. I am aware that the DCFS were notified about today's proceedings and that 14 they have explained to KJ's attorneys that they do not wish to be involved.

15

16 40. I will review the wardship on Friday, 13th December at 9:30 a.m. It is important 17 that the future of these children, if it cannot be agreed, is approached in an 18 informed manner by the Courts and that due process is followed. KJ needs to 19 place before the Court in a very timely manner evidence to clarify a number of 20 issues raised, especially conformation as to whether the children were formally 21 adopted. The wardship will provide, at this time, the structured framework for 22 such careful consideration to take place and enable all interested parties to make representations.

1 41. In this jurisdiction, we do not have an Official Solicitor. Although these are not 2 specified proceedings, I will consider whether it is appropriate to appoint a 3 Guardian ad litem to represent the children's interests and see if special 4 dispensation can be made to fund that appointment, along with an attorney. If I 5 am unable to secure such funding, I may have to consider making the children a 6 party to the proceedings and permitting them to then instruct a Guardian ad litem 7 and attorney.

9 42. I respectfully suggest that DJ and MC should 'take a step back' from their 10 apparent current polarised positions. They may wish to urgently reflect on the fact 11 that, by naming them as primary and secondary guardians at paragraph 4 of his 12 Will prepared very shortly before his passing, DJ recognised at a time when his 13 life was drawing to a close that they both may have an important role to play in 14 stabilising and thereafter developing his young children's lives. DJ would no 15 doubt have been greatly saddened to see the conflict surrounding the children 16 which has emerged so soon after his passing, at a time when the children are at 17 their most vulnerable and in need of consistent familial support. The last thing the 18 children need is to become embroiled in the uncertainty that emerges from this 19 type of family in-fighting, especially so soon after losing their father. The current 20 state of affairs casts a shadow over DJ's wishes and is clearly not in the best 21 interests of the children. DJ would have been entitled to expect that all of the 22 family members, in particular KJ and MC as he named them in his Will, would

1 unite to work together to both play a productive role in the children's lives, 2 thereby acting in the best interests of his children.

15 The judgment was delivered in private, but the Judge hereby gives leave for it to be 16 published.

18 The judgement in this matter is being distributed on a strict understanding that in any 19 report no person other than the attorneys (and any other person identified by name in the 20 judgement itself) may be identified by name or location and in particular the anonymity 21 of the child and the adult members of their family must be strictly preserved.
